Webinar on Mathematics of the moon and its connections to Engineering 12.05.2020

A webinar on the topic "Mathematics of the moon and its connections to Engineering" was arranged for the First and Second year students of Electronics and Communication Engineering. The resource person being Dr. Arun Janarthanan, Senior staff, Qualcomm Pvt Ltd, Chennai.

He discussed on the significance of the celestial positioning of moon with regard to the earth's planetary position. He made a thorough explanation based on the detailed study of moon axis inclination, the advantage of the same, how angular calculations are made from the earth as well the variations based on angles. He also discussed on the vedic method of calculations and how in ancient time, people have made much research connecting moon with mathematical calculations.

He also connected with a live simulation scenario and took students up above the horizon and explained in a 3D environment. Students felt they are crossing latitudes and longitudes and reaching out to moon in various directions making measurements of various parameters.

The webinar was an enjoyable learning and overall a grand success.
